That They Might Have Life

By Karen Garnett, CPLC Executive Director

At this time last year I announced our 2011 theme, “It’s Time for the Miraculous,” inspired by Matthew 17, in which Jesus tells his disciples: “If you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move.”

Thanks to your faith and your support, 2011 was a year of mountain-moving miracles. We saw record-breaking participation in the 2011 Roe Memorial Events and 40 Days for Life-Dallas, with thousands taking to the streets and standing vigil for life. We noted the leveling of the oldest abortion center in Texas. We celebrated the most pro-life legislative session in Texas history, including the passage of the Choose Life License Plate and Sonogram Bills, and the defunding of abortion giant Planned Parenthood of tens of millions of taxpayer dollars. Most indicative of the miraculous blessings God showered on our community are the 819 lives confirmed saved from abortion in 2011 – 276 more than last year! God’s grace working through our sidewalk counseling ministry not only ensured that over 800 babies will take their first breath, it also saved their parents from the heartbreaking, sometimes lifelong, suffering from abortion.

The culture of death that pervades our society and allows for the killing of our children is in stark contrast to the gift of life that Christ promises and delivers through His ultimate sacrifice. That contrast is reflected in this year’s theme, “That They Might Have Life,” from John 10:10, in which Jesus tells us that He came so that all might have life and have it in abundance. God offers each of us that gift of life in fulfillment of Christ’s promise, and we are obliged to respect and protect

6,000 Prayed for One Purpose

Dallas is one of over 300 communities worldwide that have conducted simultaneous 40 Days for Life campaigns, composed of 40 days of prayer and fasting, peaceful vigil outside an abortion center and community outreach to spread the pro-life message. The 2011 Dallas campaign began with a Kickoff Rally featuring the powerful testimony of former Planned Parenthood manager Ramona Treviño, who experienced a conversion of heart during the previous 40 Days for Life campaign in Sherman outside her facility. Inspired by her conversion and the call to action by fellow rally speakers, the Dallas faithful responded.

Over 6,000 people participated in the 24/7 prayer vigil for one purpose: to end abortion. And that is exactly what happened for 23 mothers, fathers and their children.

During the 40-day campaign, 23 abortion-minded women chose life for their children when presented with loving alternatives by CPLC sidewalk counselors outside the Southwestern late-term abortion center – the location of the 40 Days for Life-Dallas vigil. (Plus 92 more lives were saved at the four other abortion centers in Dallas!)

Among the 6,000 were nearly 200 youth who witnessed to life by standing in prayer outside the abortion facility with yellow “Life” balloons, interspersed with black balloons marking their brothers and sisters in the womb lost to abortion.

Thanks to the support of all of you, Dallas was once again the largest vigil in the world! In addition to this remarkable record, the Dallas

Rome Summit: Pro-Life Is Source for Christian Unity

By Ellen Rossini, CPLC Director of Development

The defense of life as a source for Christian unity emerged as a major theme at a November leaders’ evangelical summit in Rome attended by Karen Garnett, executive director of the CPLC, and a select group of 25 Christian leaders, including artists, musicians, news broadcasters, business owners, church leaders and pro-life activists.

Lectures on the extraordinary charisma of the “pope of life,” Blessed John Paul II, his groundbreaking teachings on the theology of the body as a means to restore the family, and the need for the Christian faithful to focus not on differences but on areas of common ground, highlighted the defense of life as not only a foundational effort to save the culture, but also a great avenue for Christians to forge healing bonds of unity.

“This gathering of strongly faithful contributors to the culture, in the physical center of our faith, the Eternal City, was inspiring and motivating,” said Karen. “For all Christians, our shared roots are in Rome, and the summit made clear that our shared destiny lies in restoring the sanctity of human life, and the family.”

The annual summit of the Springtime of Faith Foundation, organized by founding president and author Thomas Wykes, is one of two yearly gatherings hosted by the foundation – one in Rome in the fall and one in Nashville in the spring – designed to encourage the Christian laity, both Catholic and non-Catholic, in their individual vocations to spread the gospel.

CPLC Luncheon Spotlights Adoption & Graduates Seven GEMS Moms!

On November 19, the CPLC hosted the annual Christ Child Christmas Market and Luncheon. Guests enjoyed a beautiful program featuring Father Alfonse Nazzaro's presentation on "The Christian Family" and brought home a new information card on adoption, with the inspiring testimony of two families blessed by adoption and resources for those considering adoption. At the luncheon, the Gabriel Education Ministry & Support (GEMS) program graduated a record seven candidates! GEMS is an outreach of Project Gabriel, which offers mothers in need the opportunity to learn about themselves, their faith, and how to be better parents or consider the adoption option, and helps them develop skills to assist in work, education and service.

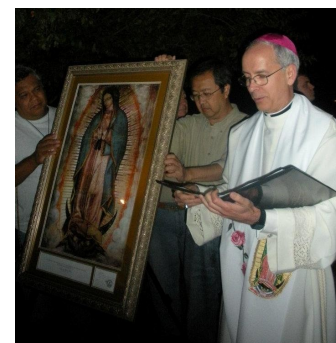

Patty Sherrod, CPLC Director of Ministries and Project Gabriel, with GEMS Graduates Brittany Wilson, Erica Williams, Brittney Bush, Jessica Rinkevich, Claudia Avalos, and Jacey Hurst (Monica Toland not pictured). Visit prolifedallas.org/gems for more info.

prayer vigil was graced with the unique commitment of local Knights of Columbus, some of whom stood vigil for 24 continuous hours. This notable devotion was covered by LifeSiteNews — a national online news source — which interviewed four members of this "24-hour club." Their commitment was possibly best summed up by one anonymous prayer warrior: "We owe the Holy Innocents of our time . . . We all owe them."

The final hour of vigil prayer reflected the enduring commitment of the Dallas faithful with a prayer service led by Bishop Mark Seitz in honor of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Patroness of the Unborn, whose pilgrim icon was present at the vigil site. The following evening, St. Thomas Aquinas Parish hosted a Victory Celebration and concert, opened by Bishop Seitz and featuring the awe-inspiring music of world-renowned composer and pianist Eric Genuis. It was a fitting end to a truly amazing campaign.

Fulfilling Faithful Citizenship in an Election Year

Forming Consciences

for Faithful
Citizenship

It's 2012, and another critical election year has started. The Texas primaries are on April 3, with the general election following on November 6. As citizens and as Catholics, we have an obligation to become informed about the candidates so that we might exercise our most prudent judgment when casting our vote. In November of last year, the U.S. Bishops re-issued the teaching document: Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship: A Call to Political Responsibility from the Catholic Bishops of the United States, with the addition of an Introductory Note. The Introductory Note reminds us of our duty to “form [our] consciences in the light of [our] Catholic faith and to bring our moral principles to the debate and decisions about candidates and issues.”

When the U.S. Bishops initially issued Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship in 2007, our own Bishop Kevin Farrell, together with Bishop Kevin Vann of Fort Worth, authored a Joint Statement summarizing key points of the document and addressing the distinction between issues of prudential judgment and issues involving intrinsic evils. In the Joint Statement, they explained:

Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship clearly teaches that not all issues have the same moral equivalence. Some issues involve “intrinsic evils”; that is, they can never under any circumstance or condition be morally justified. Preeminent among these intrinsic evils are legalized abortion, the promotion of same sex unions and “marriages”, repression of religious liberty, as well as public policies permitting euthanasia, racial discrimination or destructive human embryonic stem cell research. . . .

As Catholics we are faced with a number of issues that are of concern and should be addressed, such as immigration reform, healthcare, the economy and its solvency, care and concern for the poor, and the war on terror. As Catholics we must be concerned about these issues and work to see that just solutions are brought about. There are many possible solutions to these issues and there can be reasonable debate among Catholics on how to best approach and solve them. These are matters of “prudential judgment.” But let us be clear: issues of prudential judgment are not morally equivalent to issues involving intrinsic evils. No matter how right a given candidate is on any of these issues, it does not outweigh a candidate’s unacceptable position in favor of an intrinsic evil such as abortion or the protection of “abortion rights.” (1, 4)

The Introductory Note likewise addresses this distinction, noting that the U.S. Bishops’ teaching is not “a quantitative listing of issues for equal consideration.” Instead, it “outlines and makes important distinctions among moral issues acknowledging that some involve the clear obligation to oppose intrinsic evils which can never be justified and that others require action to pursue justice and promote the common good” (emphasis added).

In their Joint Statement, Bishops Farrell and Vann address the scenario in which a candidate supports an intrinsic evil (e.g., abortion), while supporting other issues that may, in a voter’s prudential judgment, advance the common good:

Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship, in paragraphs 34-37, addresses the question of whether it is morally permissible for a Catholic to vote for a candidate who supports an intrinsic evil – even when the voter does not agree with the candidate’s position on that evil. The only moral possibilities for a Catholic to be able to vote in good conscience for a candidate who supports this intrinsic evil are the following:

- a. If both candidates running for office support abortion or “abortion rights,” a Catholic would be forced to then look at the other important issues and through their vote try to limit the evil done; or,
- b. If another intrinsic evil outweighs the evil of abortion. While this is sound moral reasoning, there are no “truly grave moral” or “proportionate” reasons, singularly or combined, that could outweigh the millions of innocent human lives that are directly killed by legal abortion each year.

To vote for a candidate who supports the intrinsic evil of abortion or “abortion rights” when there is a morally acceptable alternative would be to cooperate in the evil – and, therefore, morally impermissible. (5)

In closing, Bishops Farrell and Vann urge us to treat our political choices “with appropriate moral gravity and in doing so, realize our continuing and unavoidable obligation to be a voice for the voiceless unborn, whose destruction by legal abortion is the preeminent intrinsic evil of our day.” (For a complete copy of the Joint Statement in English and Spanish, visit prolifedallas.org/voting.)

Faithful Citizenship Education Opportunities

In the coming months, the Catholic Pro-Life Committee will be providing several opportunities for additional education on Faithful Citizenship in preparation for the 2012 elections, including:

What the Church Teaches on Faithful Citizenship, three-part series co-sponsored by Catholic Charities of Dallas, the Catholic Pro-Life Committee of North Texas, and the St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Justice Ministry:

- January 19 at 7 p.m., St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Faith Formation Center (Rm 130), Plano, featuring Bishop Mark Seitz
- February 2 at 7 p.m., St. Rita Catholic Church (Sweeney Lounge), Dallas, featuring Jennifer Allmon of the Texas Catholic Conference and Karen Garnett of the Catholic Pro-Life Committee
- February 16 at 7 p.m. (location and featured speaker TBA).

Render Unto Caesar Faithful Citizenship Conference, August 4, 2012

The Catholic Pro-Life Committee will present a bilingual Render Unto Caesar conference, featuring church teaching on Faithful Citizenship and state-wide experts on pro-life issues and advocacy. More information to come at prolifedallas.org/civicaction.

Parish Resources: Would your parish like a presentation tailored to your parishioners? The CPLC is offering bilingual evening and weekend presentations (1-2 hours) on Faithful Citizenship upon request. Contact 972-267-LIFE (5433) or email civic@prolifedallas.org to request a presentation.

that promise for all. How do we do that? Your prayers and your witness for life are the key.

The Roe Memorial Events this Saturday, January 21, present a tremendous opportunity to join thousands in powerful prayer and peaceful witness. As Bishop Farrell explains in his letter of invitation to all Dallas Diocese Catholics, the anniversary of the Roe v. Wade decision, which legalized abortion and led to the death of over 52 million children, “cannot go unmarked.”

[I]t is our obligation as a People of Life to remember the lives lost and stand up in prayer and witness for the lives to come, until the tragedy ends in the very city where it began – Dallas. - Bishop Farrell

I hope you all will be able to join Bishop Farrell, along with Bishops Vann, Deshotel and Seitz, in this monumental event. (See p. 8 for Schedule of Events or visit prolifedallas.org/roe).

Among the many opportunities to witness for life this year, one of the most important is at the voting booth. Casting your vote for life in the 2012 elections is integral to reversing the policies that foster a culture of death and have sanctioned nearly four decades of killing. As we raise our voices to advocate for public policy that respects all life, we must continue to work here at home for the conversion of hearts. Your continued support of our nine ministries with prayers, time and treasure makes that possible. Thank you, and may God bless you for all you do for Life!

Featured speakers at the fall invitation-only summit held on the University of Dallas’ Rome campus included Cardinal Francis Arinze of the Roman Curia, Mother Assumpta Long of the Dominican Sisters of Mary, Mother of the Eucharist, Chris Jansing of MSNBC News, Fr. Thomas Williams, L.C., religion commentator for Fox News, and Fr. Jose Granados of the John Paul II Institute for Studies on Marriage and Family.

The summit included lecture-guided tours of the Eternal City, specifically holy sites associated with St. Paul as he journeyed from house arrest, to brutal imprisonment to martyrdom.

“As beautiful as Rome is, rich with the spirit of all the saints, but most especially our recently beatified Blessed John Paul II, it is never far from the mind of any pilgrim that our forefathers suffered and gave their lives here for the sake of the gospel,” said Karen. “To the extent we suffer for the sake of the unborn, or give more than we thought possible, or give even our lives, should that be required, we’re only doing what the saints before us have done.”

November 2011 summit participants included Catholic radio host and author Teresa Tomeo; Janet Morana of Priests for Life and the Silent No More Awareness Campaign; recording artist Danielle Rose; Dr. Richard Land of The Ethics & Religious Liberty Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention; painter Mark Sanislo; and Monica Ashour of the Theology of the Body Evangelization Team.

Your donation saves babies!

Your 100 percent tax-deductible gift is critical to equipping the Catholic Pro-Life Committee to fulfill our unique mission in furthering the Gospel of Life in the Diocese of Dallas and beyond.

Every year we reach out to help an average of at least one mother each day to choose life instead of abortion — 819 chose life in 2011!

Using the enclosed envelope, please mail your gift to: CPLC, P.O. Box 59852, Dallas, TX 75229, or make a donation online at www.prolifedallas.org/donations.

If you wish to support our mission with a special contribution such as a stock gift, a company matching grant, a monthly pledge, a willed gift, or other non-cash donation, please contact Director of Development Ellen Rossini at 972-571-8705.
